Reverend Doctor

To
The Reverend Doctor Ven.
son
Parson Street
Goodman's fields.
London.

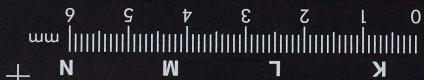

I hope, Sir, you will have received the Letter, I wrote you tis a month ago. Since that time I have had a Letter from Mr. Nolterius, who gives me Notice of his being about translating your History of the first planting of the Christian Church.
For the present there is nothing remarkable I can write you.
The Bearer of this Letter is my Brother in Law Mr. Sack, a young Divine, who with two other Prospective Candidates viz. Mr.
Scholz and Mr. Stegeman has a mind to stay for some months in your Country. He will be very glad, if you will be so kind as to allow him to pay you now and then a Visit and to profit of your Company, and I dare say you will not refuse him this Favour. My Father in Law charged me to assure you of his sincerest Esteem. He is undoubtedly persuaded, that your Conversation will be of the greatest use to his Son, and therefore he recommends him to your particular Care and Affection. I wish you, Sir, all health and happiness; I recommend myself to your kind remembrance and I am

Reverend Doctor
